$4,000 of marijuana seized from Didsbury residence

One pound of illegal drugs and other items

BY MADISON SAMUEL-BARCLAY
Review Staff

Four hundred and fifty-six grams (or one pound) of illegal drugs, including cannabis marijuana, and other related items were seized from the 12000 block of 21 Street in the town of Didsbury on Oct. 15 around 5:45 p.m.

The estimated street value of the seized substances was around $4,000.

RCMP had received an anonymous tip that lead to the investigation of the unit.

After roughly six to eight weeks of investigation, beginning in August, on the noted location, RCMP applied for a search warrant, which they were granted.

Approximately one hour after the warrant was granted, RCMP approached and entered the residence.

Among the substances seized were also paraphernalia such as scales, baggies, pipes and bongs.

Trafficking charges were laid as the scales and baggies are commonly used for drug distribution.

The cannabis seized was also found in resin form, to produce other forms of the drug, such as resin pucks collected from the scene.

These pucks would be more potent in effect and likely smoked with the use of a pipe.

No actual plants were seized, nor was a grow operation found in the unit.

The source of the drugs has yet to be determined.

The accused, a 21-year-old male, was not home at the time of the search.

The male was arrested later that evening by RCMP without incident and was charged under several sections of the Controlled Drugs and Substances Act.

The accused was charged with one count of trafficking a substance (cannabis marijuana), one count of possession of a substance (cannabis marijuana) and one count of production of a substance (cannabis resin).

"There are more people in town from outside it, so people don't always know their neighbours now," said Constable Jason Decoste, lead investigator for this case. "Small towns can be a prime location for this activity."

There can be signs to tip off residents to grow-ops or other drug-related activity at residences, however.

The odour of marijuana, a spicy, pungent smell, can be one sign, as well as suspicious activity at the residence, with many unfamiliar vehicles visiting or people coming and going often.

Heavy condensation on the windows, or boarded up or covered windows may also suggest possible drug activity.

"We treat every tip we get very seriously," said Corporal Warren Wright.

Anyone with information or reason to suspect suspicious activity are asked to call the Didsbury RCMP detachment complaint line or CrimeStoppers.

School funding restoration a good first move

DAN SINGLETON

Newly minted Premier Alison Redford's decision to restore more than $100 million in education funding to Alberta school is welcome news for parents and students.

Following her PC leadership campaign victory, Redford moved to fulfill her campaign promise to put the money back into the system, funding that had been cut by the previous Stelmach regime.

Not surprisingly new Education Minister Thomas Lukaszuk has been quick to praise his leader's decision.

"This funding to school boards recognizes the fundamental value Albertans place on education and the expectation that appropriate classroom supports will be in place for Alberta's students," said Lukaszuk.

"With this additional funding, local school boards are directed to make decisions that are student-centered and to ensure funding is allocated where it will make the most direct impact on students in the classroom."

All school boards will be required to report to Alberta Education detailing how the funding has been allocated and "how it positively affected students so that they can, and I can, report back to Albertans on the investment of that $107 million," Lukaszuk said.

School boards across the province have, not surprisingly, reacted with pleasure at the renewed money, saying that there are current and long-term funding pressures at all grade levels that need to be addressed.

And while no one can argue that additional money spent on education is money well spent, whether the Redford Tories should be praised for the fund restoration is another question entirely.

For his part, official opposition education critic Kent Hehr says restoring the funding simply corrects an earlier mistake made by the Stelmach cabinet, which included Redford.

"Let's not forget that she was at the cabinet table when the original boneheaded decision to short-change education funding was made," said Hehr. "It's fine to correct your mistakes, but we could have avoided a lot of grief, hassle and expense had the mistake not been made in the first place."

The other opposition parties have also said that the restored funding is a case of righting an earlier wrong made by the Tories.

Premier Redford decided to make the restoration of the education funding one of her big campaign promises – and now she has fulfilled that commitment to Alberta students, teachers and staff.

Yet while schools will no doubt benefit from new funding, the premier should be aware that correcting the mistakes of the former government is only part of what Albertans will be expecting from her new administration.

Whether its education, healthcare, justice, transportation, infrastructure or some other area, residents will be watching for forward-looking policies and programs under Redford's leadership.

Letters to the editor

I am always annoyed and amazed that people are so quick to judge and think that one thought is correct - by assuming that someone did this on purpose - you actually did more damage than good. I am truly a pet lover and I am sorry that someone's furry feline met its untimely death. I have rescued animals and given domestic animals a good, full life. I have also unfortunately hit an animal on the road and made many rescue attempts. However, if and when I have seen an animal bloody, barely alive and with the crap literally squeezed out of them, I tend to continue on my way. Here's why:

Well-fed, well-cared-for domestic animals, including ones that live outside on farms, don't usually wander too far and especially not going across busy roads.

By stopping your vehicle and going to the middle of the road and taking the time to "rescue" the animal, you put yourself and other drivers in danger. I have seen a person hit by a vehicle and believe me, it isn't any more attractive than your cat was. As well, regardless of where you pulled your vehicle over, that's illegal and even if you had flashers on, it could have been disastrous.

By "scooping" or moving the cat, if the cat was still conscious, you threw it into even more pain and possibly broke or crushed something that was already beyond repair. You don't need to be a paramedic to know that and believe me, in the event that it were me lying in the middle of the road with no chance of survival, I really wouldn't want you to come along and "rescue" me.

In regards to the individual that supposedly left this animal to die, chances are that she/he made a wise choice deciding not to swerve into possible oncoming traffic, not being able to stop in time. I am almost positive that the person didn't wake up that day and propose to run a cat down and leave it to die.

The person or persons you should be annoyed at is the cat's owner for letting their beloved pet run at large.

It is fortunate that there are people like yourself that would risk life or limb for someone else's responsibility, especially on an animal that had no chance anyway. However, if you think that it was humane or kind as to what you think you did for that animal, think again. It is also arrogant to even mention what you did, giving yourself credit, not once, but several times in your own letter.

"Fat cats and hungry mice"

Thanks to the Internet, the super rich financial elite no longer have a complete monopoly over the mass media.

Common people are now able to bypass traditional information sources and to communicate with each other.

Gradually the truths about corporate greed and corruption are being exposed.

But the common people have a daunting challenge if they are to change society to be more just and humane.

The super-wealthy have many more weapons in their arsenals.

They can afford to buy off politicians, to hide behind privacy and confidentiality legislation, and to provide themselves with military and police security.

In a contest between fat cats and hungry mice, it is the cats who usually win.

Stay safe this Halloween

BY MADISON SAMUEL-BARCLAY
Review Staff

What time is more ideal for children than a day dedicated to dressing up and gathering candy?

Halloween is truly a fun event that can tickle anyone's inner child, and celebration is always best enjoyed in the comfort of safety.

Here are some tips to ensure the whole family has a safe and happy Halloween.

- Halloween night can be pretty chilly. Try to make sure costumes are warm by wearing extra socks or sweaters under the main ensemble, so the costume still shows true but the wearer stays warm.

- Also, it doesn't hurt to wear a good pair of shoes when out and about trick-or-treating all night.

- Brightly-coloured costumes, or costumes that reflect visibility in the darkness, will help alert others or drivers to your presence. Putting reflective lights or carrying a flashlight or other device to keep your way, and yourself, lit are also beneficial.

- Face paint can sometimes be a better choice than a mask, as masks can reduce visibility or breathing ease. If a mask is to be worn, make sure the wearer can see and breathe just fine.

- If you have a lit jack-o'-lantern with a candle outside, try to put it in a place where small children cannot reach it.

- If you have pets, keep them inside or away from the door as trick-or-treaters stop by, to avoid any excited incidents.

- Buy peanut-free candy to distribute.

- If you have children trick-or-treating, make sure they are trick-or-treating in pairs or groups, or accompany them.

- Ask that children save all their collected goodies until they get home and don't eat any while out so you can check the candy for anything unpleasant that may have slipped into their bags (sending children out after they've had dinner can help curb their temptation).

Heritage Advisory Committee has final list of historic sites

CynDee Walden, human resources and communication coordinator for the town, and Gord Fulton, a Didsbury businessman and a member of the Heritage Advisory Committee, in front of the Berscht Block, which Fulton owns.

BY JOHNNIE
BACHUSKY
Review Staff

The town's Heritage Advisory Committee has made its final selection of 25 sites in Didsbury that have potential historic significance.

The final list, which was completed last month, follows an exhaustive process that began with a historical survey in 2010. The survey initially identified 163 sites in the downtown core with potential historic significance. The buildings included in the survey were a mix of residential and commercial buildings with a few churches as well.

With the help of Heritage Collaborative Inc. the first list was then trimmed down to 62. This was followed by a historical inventory process that came up with the final list of 25. The inventory process determined which buildings met the requirements to become designated historic buildings.

"This completes this step. The next step is to meet with the property owners to discuss (historical) designation. We need approval from the owners," said CynDee Walden, human resources and communication coordinator for the town. "We don't want to pare it down any more. We had a difficult time getting it down to 25."

Walden said the consultants are now preparing a draft statement of significance for each of the 25 sites.

"From that it will be up to the property owner to see if they want to move forward," said Walden. "We are hopeful by about March we will have inventory complete and we will be able to move forward to working with property owners."

Some of the 25 sites that were selected are Berscht Block on Main Street were the AGT Telephone Exchange Building on 19 Avenue, and the Shantz farmhouse on 15 Avenue.

Gord Fulton, owner of the Berscht Block and a member of the Heritage Advisory Committee, said it has taken a lot of work by his family and friends to transform the structure, built after a fire in 1925, back to its original glory since he purchased the building in 2007.

"It has been one of my goals, even before I became a member of the committee, to refurbish this building as much as I could," said Fulton. "It takes a lot of work to do this. To do it right you need a lot of money, which I don't have. But the whole family has been here to help. It has been a labour of love."

Fulton is hoping all 25 landowners will give their approval for municipal historical designation, and that it will motivate other property owners with historical buildings to "get on the bandwagon" to have their structures restored and designated as well.

"It is a living document," said Walden of the heritage site inventory. "If somebody would like their property designated we can add it to the list if they meet the criteria."

After a site is designated a municipal historical site the town and property owners can then opt to have their site designated by the province as well.

However, Walden cautioned that the province has different criteria for designation than the town.

To date, Didsbury has three sites that have earned provincial historic site designation - the Didsbury Railway Station, the Didsbury Museum and the Hiebert House on 24 Avenue.

Festival aims for Didsbury venue

Faith-based music event still a daunting decision for town

BY MADISON SAMUEL-BARCLAY
Review Staff

Revolution Ministries has set its sights on Didsbury as its key venue for its new Revolution Festival.

However, whether or not the Town of Didsbury will accept to host the festival or not still remains to be seen.

The Revolution Festival, a brand new faith-based music event, is to be the first of its kind in Canada, according to the original proposal presented to a Committee of the Whole meeting on Oct. 11 by Revolution Ministries.

The proposal read, "We have found Didsbury, Alberta, to be the prime location based on its location, size, structural layout, and target market."

The event would take place during the third weekend of August yearly.

For the first year, Revolution Ministries estimates that approximately 50 bands, 10 speakers, 20 merchants and 20 food and beverage vendors, as well as family entertainment services, will be brought.

The ideal location for the festivities will be at the Memorial Park and arena.

Revolution Ministries is looking to host three stages, each for a different type of music genre (rock, alternative, hip hop, worship, folk, gospel, metal, etc.)

Speakers at the event will include youth speakers, drug and other addiction speakers, comedians, and speakers focused on self-betterment issues.

Morning church services will be held on the "main-stage" of the event during each morning of the event, and vendors for food and beverage, as well as other goods and not-for-profit groups will be present.

In order to make this event happen, Revolution Industries has required of the town a parking area to accommodate 1,000 to 5,000 vehicles, a shuttle service between 8 a.m. and 1 a.m., tenting land for 4,000 to 8,000 people, shower facilities, and the Didsbury Memorial Complex and Memorial Park for venues.

While the Committee of the Whole showed interest in the festival, the requirements to meet in order to hold it were deemed very steep.

"It's unreal, the number of people these sort of things draw," said Mayor Brian Wittal at the meeting.

However, it is currently uncertain if local businesses and not-for-profit groups will be able to take advantage of the festival as well, or if space and accommodations can be matched for the event.

Also troubling is that the festival is expected to expand each year, causing further problems in long-term planning in terms of space and funds.

The committee motioned to discuss the festival proposition further at the next regular council meeting of Oct. 25.

Notice of Application

 Fifth Avenue Place
 Fourth Floor, 425 First Street S.W.
 Calgary, Alberta T2P 3L8

Application No. 1607507
Alberta Electric System Operator
Proceeding ID No. 1368
Red Deer Region Transmission System Development Needs Identification Document Application

The Alberta Utilities Commission (AUC or the Commission) is a quasi-judicial regulatory body responsible for making decisions about utility-related applications, such as building transmission lines, substations and power plants. The AUC is responsible for making decisions about the need for transmission system development, including the need for new or rebuilt transmission lines and facilities.

The Alberta Electric System Operator (AESO) is responsible for planning electric facility transmission development in Alberta. The AESO filed a needs identification document (NID) application with the Commission on July 20, 2011, under Section 34 of the Electric Utilities Act, requesting approval of the need for new transmission development in the Red Deer area, identified in the map attached. In the NID, the AESO describes the development and reinforcement of the electric transmission system in the Red Deer region of Alberta to serve forecasted load increases in the region.

The NID application deals only with the need for transmission development - and not the construction of the facilities. The construction of transmission lines and facilities requires a separate application to the AUC.

The AUC has decided to issue a notice of application at this time to alert interested parties that the application has been filed and to allow such parties to review the application.

The AUC is now reviewing the AESO's need application to ensure it is complete. An application is complete once the Commission ensures that it includes all of the information necessary in relation to the technical requirements of AUC Rule 007: Rules Respecting Applications for Power Plants, Substations, Transmission Lines, and Industrial System Designations, as well as other information requirements. If necessary, the AUC may request additional information from the applicant to ensure the application is complete before further steps are taken.

Submission deadline:

Any person or group having concerns or objections with the above-mentioned application or who wishes to support the application should file a submission with the AUC by November 17, 2011. If no submissions objecting to the application are received by the above date, the AUC may make a decision on the application without any further notice or process.

Description of the AESO's needs identification document application:
AESO Application No. 1607507 – Needs Identification Document

In Application No. 1607507, the AESO created various options to develop the transmission system in the Red Deer region. Of these options, the AESO selected a two-stage approach as detailed below to implement the development. A map is attached to illustrate the proposed development.

Stage One – The target in-service date for the proposed reinforcements in Stage One is between the fourth quarter of 2012 and 2014.

1. New 240/138-kV substations and associated transmission lines:

- Build a new 240/138-kV (kV) substation close to existing 240-kV transmission line 918L in the Didsbury area. Connect the substation to 918L by using an in-and-out configured double-circuit 240-kV transmission line. Install a 240/138-kV, 200-megavolt-ampere (MVA) autotransformer. Add new 138-kV lines to the existing transmission lines 80L from Ghost 205 substation, 80L from Olds 555 substation and 166L from Harmattan 2565 substation respectively.
- Build a new 240/138-kV substation close to existing 240-kV line 929L in the Innisfail area. Connect the substation to 929L by using an in-and-out configured double-circuited 240-kV transmission line. Install a single 240/138-kV, 200MVA autotransformer. Add a new double-circuit 138-kV transmission line from the substation to the Innisfail 2145 substation.
- Build a new 240/138-kV substation close to existing 240-kV line 910L in the Ponoka area. Connect the substation to 910L by using an in-and-out configured double-circuited 240-kV transmission line. Install a single 240/138-kV, 200MVA autotransformer. Add a new double-circuit 138-kV transmission line from the substation to the Ponoka 3315 substation.

2. Additions or modifications to existing substations:

- Add a second 240/138-kV, 200-MVA autotransformer and associated equipment at Benalto 175 substation.
- Modify the existing 138-kV buswork and add switchgear equipment at Gaetz 875 substation and North Red Deer 2175 substation in order to split the existing 138-kV transmission lines 768L and 778L.
- Add switchgear equipment at the existing Innisfail 2145, Ellis 3325, NE Lacombe 2125 and Ponoka 3315 substations in order to terminate new transmission lines from the newly proposed 240-kV substations.
- Install a 50-MVA, 138-kV capacitor bank and associated equipment at Joffre 5355 substation.
- Install a 50-MVA, 138-kV capacitor bank and associated equipment at Prentiss 2765 substation.
- Install a 25-MVA, 138-kV capacitor bank and associated equipment at Ellis 3325 substation.

3. New 138-kV transmission line developments:

Build approximately 20 km of 138-kV transmission line from NE Lacombe 2125 substation to Ellis 3325 substation.

4. Rebuild existing 138-kV transmission lines:

- Build approximately five km of the 138-kV 80L transmission line from south Red Deer 1945 substation to north Red Deer 2175 substation, using a conductor with an approximate summer/winter rating of 350/450-MVA.
- Build approximately five km of the 138-kV 80L transmission line from south Red Deer 1945 to Red Deer 635 substations using a conductor with an approximate summer/winter rating of 350/450-MVA.
- Build approximately 35 km of the 138-kV 648L transmission line from Red Deer 635 substation to Sylvan Lake 5805 substation and 637L from Sylvan Lake 5805 substation to Benalto 175 substation using a conductor with an approximate summer/winter rating of 250/315-MVA.
- Build approximately 45 km of the 138-kV 755L transmission line from Red Deer 635 substation to Piper Creek 2475 substation to Joffre 5355 substation using a conductor with an approximate summer/winter rating of 250/315-MVA.
- Split up 138-kV transmission lines 768L and 778L between the north Red Deer 2175 and Gaetz 875 substations to create two separate circuits with an approximate summer/winter rating of 180/220 MVA.

5. Discontinue operation of existing 138-kV transmission lines:

- Decommission and salvage approximately 40 km of transmission line 716L from Wetaskiwin 405 substation to Ponoka 3315 substation.
- Decommission and salvage approximately 30 km of transmission line 80L from West Lacombe 958S substation to Ponoka 3315 substation.
- Decommission and salvage approximately 25 km of transmission line 80L from Innisfail 2145 substation to Red Deer 635 substation.

6. Discontinuance of operation of existing substations:

- Decommission and salvage the existing Didsbury 1525 substation and associated infrastructure.

Stage Two – The target in-service date for the proposed reinforcements in Stage Two is by 2017 when the forecasted peak load in the region is expected to reach approximately 825MW.

1. Rebuild existing 138-kV transmission lines:

- Install approximately 20 km of 138-kV transmission line from Harmattan 2565 substation to the new substation in the Didsbury area using a conductor with a summer/winter rating of at least 250/315-MVA.

HARVESTING FOR A CAUSE - One hundred acres of land was harvested this month as part of the Rosebud Community Growth Project. The project has been active since 2004 in the Mountain View County area and has raised over $121,400 (not including this year) to be sent to the Canadian International Development Agency in Winnipeg, which goes towards food relief and other aid in third world countries. The harvest effort is voluntary and it is estimated that this year around $32,000 was raised.

Vehicle vandals and yard arson

BY MADISON SAMUEL-BARCLAY
Review Staff

The Didsbury and Carstairs area saw another string of vandals as of late.

On Oct. 11, around 4 p.m., fires began in the front yard of the 1200 block on 15 Ave. in Didsbury.

Several small fire pits had been set up under the trees in the yard, where fires were started, and consequently setting fire to one of the trees.

The Didsbury Fire Department attended the scene.

However, the RCMP were not made aware of the incident until Oct. 17.

RCMP are currently reviewing the case, which is still under investigation, as arson, whether setting the tree on fire was intentional or not.

The replacement cost for the burnt tree is around $1,000.

Individuals who may have been involved with the incident or know someone involved are asked to report their information to the detachment.

On Oct. 17, at around 4 p.m., a 2005 Pontiac Montana van was recovered from a ditch off Hwy. 581, going into Carstairs.

The vehicle had been ditched and was determined to be a stolen vehicle from Calgary, reported stolen two days prior to its discovery.

Investigation for this case is still on-going with assistance from the identification department.

Between the evening of Oct. 17 and the morning of Oct. 18, two vehicles parked on the road at the 2100 block of 23 Ave. were found vandalized.

The green Ford Escort and black Chevrolet pickup truck had both been smashed.

RCMP believes that the vehicles were related, and that the vandals were likely caused by the same people.

Anyone with information regarding the incident is asked to contact the detachment.

Five deer and one moose strike have been noted in the area over the past few weeks.

Those driving are asked to travel with caution, as it gets darker faster now during commuting hours and many animals are about with farmers working in their fields and hunting season afoot.

Drivers are highly recommended to drive at safe speeds when traveling and to utilize deer whistles on their vehicles.

How to file a submission:

Any person who has concerns or objections with the application or who wishes to support the application must file a submission by 2 p.m. on November 17, 2011. The submission must contain the following information:

- A brief description of the issues you want the Commission to consider when deciding upon the application.
- A description of your right(s) that may be directly and adversely affected by a decision of the Commission on the proposed application.
- An explanation of the manner in which your right(s) may be directly and adversely affected by a decision of the Commission on the proposed application.
- A description of your land location, residence or activity in relation to the location of the proposed facility.
- Your name, address in Alberta, telephone number, fax number, if any, and if available, an email address.
- Whether you want the Commission to hold a hearing to consider the application.

You may make your submission to the Commission by letter, fax, email, or on the enclosed submission form. An electronic version of the submission form is also available on the AUC's website (www.auc.ab.ca) on the Forms page of the Newsroom section.

The Commission will review the submissions received and determine whether the person or persons that made the submission have demonstrated that they have rights that may be directly or adversely affected by the Commission's decision on the application.

If the Commission determines that a person's rights may be directly and adversely affected by its decision on the application it must hold a hearing to consider the application.

If the Commission determines that no person has established rights that may be directly or adversely affected by its decision on the application, the Commission will continue to process the application and may make a decision on it without further notice or process.

The AUC would appreciate receiving submissions through the e-filing services on our website (www.auc.ab.ca). Guidelines on how to access and use the e-filing services are in the AUC Electronic Filings Services brochure, available in the Newsroom section of our website. London trip almost a reality for DHS band

Review Staff

In 2010, the Didsbury High School (DHS) band was playing in Whistler, B.C. Dr. Glenn Price, an adjudicator of the event, was watching the band's performance with great interest.

Price hosts a gathering of musical excellence every four years in an Olympic city, and the DHS band was extended an invitation.

"He was impressed with us and liked what he saw and heard and invited us," said DHS Band Director Kirk Wassmer.

This will be Wassmer's 10th year directing the band.

The DHS band is one of six bands invited to play in London, England, from April 4 to April 14.

A collective cost for various expenses such as meals, accommodations and more comes to around $3,500, and the band has been working hard at fundraising efforts to reach this goal.

"We're doing anything we can," said Wassmer. "It's an expensive proposition."

The band has been reaching out to the community with performances and searches for grants, sponsors, and other donations.

According to Wassmer, community involvement was a bit slow to start, but thanks to recent donation efforts, things are picking up.

"A lot of community groups are starting to step forward now," said Wassmer.

One such donation was presented by the Didsbury Elks Society during the Small Business Awards Gala on Oct. 15.

Following this donation was another of $1,500 by the Didsbury & District Chamber of Commerce Gala Committee on Oct. 24.

"One of the things I love about a small town is that a band like this can be a prominent feature," said Wassmer.

The DHS band is comprised of close to 80 students, all of whom are making personal payments as well as fundraising efforts to see that they accept the invitation extended to them.

"It's nice to receive an invitation, but it's better to take it," said Wassmer.

As for what kind of experience the students will get out of such a trip, Wassmer said, "These performances will be played with other bands in London, playing all together as one band."

"It's very much a performance tour, with concerts in London and Didsbury, England. They're excellent venues too, like the London one, the Central Hall of Westminster."

"I think playing as part of a big group with these other bands is a great experience for them."

The DHS band will also be playing at the second annual Olds Rotary Jazzfest, taking place from Nov. 7 to Nov. 9.

The DHS band will be performing on Nov. 7, and will be receiving specialized mentoring from the Calgary Jazz Orchestra on Nov. 9.

All shows for the event will take place at 7 p.m. at the TransCanada Theatre in Olds.

Didsbury local a contender for Canada's Got Talent

Sixteen-year-old Nick Wozney puts singing and guitar skills on display in Halifax

BY MADISON SAMUEL-BARCLAY
Review Staff

Didsbury local Nick Wozney, age 16, experienced the chance of a lifetime when he flew east to Halifax and tried out for this year's season of Canada's Got Talent.

The TV show is Canada's hit revision of America's Got Talent, and draws people all across the country to showcase their talents and compete for the coveted prize.

"I had heard about [the show] and thought that maybe I should try out, but I never went through with it until the last minute," said Wozney, who had arrived back home in Didsbury from his three-day trip, from Oct. 10 to Oct. 13.

The auditions took place on Oct. 11 and Oct. 12.

"I missed the auditions in Edmonton and Calgary, and Halifax was where the last audition was," Wozney explained. "I talked to my parents and they let me go. I flew out at the last minute, so my friends didn't know I was going. I got a lot of positive feedback on Facebook from them, though."

Wozney travelled with his grandmother to showcase his talent in singing and guitar-playing, something he had been doing for as long as he could remember.

"I started with guitar. My parents put me into it," said Wozney. "I didn't always enjoy it, but my parents would say 'You're gonna thank us when you're older', and now I'm very happy I stayed with it. My favourite thing is singing, though."

Wozney is inspired by classic rock and artists and bands such as Ozzy Osbourne, Aerosmith, AC/DC, and Motley Crue.

For the judges at the audition, though, Wozney chose a more current influence to channel.

"My family says I have a voice similar to the singer from Kings of Leon, so I played a cover of their song Use Somebody," said Wozney.

The song was played as an acoustic version for the judges, whom Wozney said gave him positive feedback, but unfortunately no guarantee about his future for the show.

"The judges can't actually say much, because they're not the actual judges," said Wozney.

"But they said I did good. There's no guarantee though, you have to wait for a callback."

Callbacks have a deadline of November 30, and those chosen will compete in the next televised round of the show.

"When I got there, I wasn't even sure if I could even get in," Wozney explained.

"There were people who had pre-registered, and I hadn't done that, so I had to wait in line."

Luckily for Wozney, though, fortune was on his side.

"A lot of pre-registered people didn't show," he said.

Overall, Wozney said he had an excellent time and a great experience, from the auditioning process and even the line-wait beforehand.

"It was really cool. I was waiting at the end of the line and a rock radio station showed up to interview me," Wozney said.

This was also Wozney's first trip so far across the country, having not gone much farther than the Prairies.

"The thing that stood out for me was all the forest," Wozney said. "As soon as you were out of the city it was just forests, forests, forests, more forests than northern Alberta. It was also still warm there, and there were a lot of colours because of the trees."

Along with the experience of a lifetime, Wozney came back home to Didsbury with new friends made.

"I met a guy named Tim. He was a guitar teacher in Halifax," said Wozney. "He was the coolest guy I met there, he was very down-to-earth and very respectful. I hung out with him the most."

As for the talents on display at the auditions, Wozney said he was really excited to see what other skills other people had to showcase.

"It was really interesting stuff, getting to experience all that I got to see and all the different talents out there. Some of these talents you don't even realize exist," said Wozney.

Now that he's back home, Wozney will be continuing his pursuit in music with or without a callback from the show, working with his band in Edmonton, continuing to play shows.

"I'm hoping we can make it into real, serious entertainment," said Wozney. "I want to bring back what we don't see much of anymore, that classic rock sound. What I'm trying to do now though is learn all the studio stuff, but I'm really so much about singing right now."

Wozney had also recorded a CD last summer with a previous band.

"I think he has a lot of drive and that he's confident," said Wozney's mother, Kim. "He pled a pretty convincing case to us to let him go to Halifax. It was a gut instinct. It's really that he learns something and uses it to his benefit."

"It wasn't so much that I get a callback or not, but more that I went and did it," said Wozney. "It was a lot of fun."

Hockey is in full swing in Didsbury and the Tyke 1 team has been busy practicing to hone their skills for the upcoming season. This year's Tyke 1 team is led by four gritty players that know how to dent the twine: Kai Biggin, Jay Heistad, Carter Campbell and Carter Fifield. The up and comers: Blake Miller, Henry Bommarito, Brooklyn Ruby and Sierra Reese will give the team the extra fire power it needs own the stretch. With the additional smarts and a nose for the puck of the rookies: Brendan Fifield, Peyton Reese and Nicholas Sloan, this looks to be a fun and exciting season.

Public Notice

TransCanada, through its subsidiary NOVA Gas Transmission Ltd. (NGTL), and ATCO Pipelines have entered into an agreement to exchange ownership of approximately 3,100 kilometres of natural gas pipelines in Alberta. The Asset Swap Agreement would see TransCanada and ATCO Pipelines exchange ownership of facilities in certain areas to reduce the overlap of field resources and to achieve operational and cost efficiencies.

The asset exchange is of an administrative nature and its effects will be minimal. There will be no new pipeline construction or land disruption; however, routine activities may be carried out during the next two years until the exchange is completed. For example, emergency signage and communications equipment will need to be updated to reflect the change in ownership of the facilities. The exchange will not affect ATCO Gas or its relationship with its customers as ATCO Gas customers will continue to receive their distribution services from ATCO Gas.

Approval of the exchange will be required from the National Energy Board (NEB) and the Alberta Utilities Commission (AUC). Pipeline facilities being transferred from TransCanada to ATCO Pipelines will shift from the NEB regulatory framework to the AUC, which governs the ATCO Pipelines System, while facilities transferred to TransCanada will shift to the NEB, which regulates TransCanada's Alberta System.

Separate applications are expected to be filed by TransCanada and ATCO Pipelines with the NEB and AUC respectively in December 2011. Subject to regulatory approval, it is anticipated that the transfer will be completed in 2013.

Beginning in mid-November 2011, TransCanada and ATCO Pipelines will be hosting open houses in regions affected by the asset exchange, where the public can learn more about the project. TransCanada and ATCO Pipelines project members will be available at each open house to answer questions, provide information, and gather feedback from the public. Open houses are scheduled for Grande Prairie, Edson, Barrhead, Camrose, Sylvan Lake, Vegreville, Wainwright, Olds, Balzac and Vulcan. Details on open house locations, dates, and times will be advertised in local newspapers and radio stations in the coming days.

In the meantime, for more details on the exchange, the regulatory process, and for a full list of open houses please visit our website or contact us at:

Accused in student's death goes to trial Nov. 28

DAN SINGLETON AND
JULIE BERTRAND
For the Review

The jury trial for a man charged after an 18-year-old Olds College student was run down and killed outside an Olds bar in October 2010 will begin on Nov. 28, officials said Friday.

Crown prosecutor Roy Smith said the trial, to be heard in Calgary Court of Queen's Bench, is expected to last until about Dec. 21.

"These types of offences are mandatory jury unless both parties consent and I think a jury should listen to this," said Smith, noting the jury will be selected on Nov. 25.

Jeffrey Leinen, 25, faces charges of second-degree murder, dangerous operation causing death, impaired driving causing death, dangerous driving causing bodily harm, and impaired driving causing bodily harm.

A Ford F150 drove through a group of pedestrians outside the Texas Mickey bar shortly after midnight on Oct. 29, 2010.

Nicholas Baier, 18, died at the scene. A second 19-year-old male Olds College student was injured.

Leinen was ordered to stand trial on a charge of second-degree murder following a preliminary hearing in Didsbury provincial court in August.

A publication ban prohibits reporting on evidence presented during that preliminary inquiry.

Leinen remains in custody pending the trial.

Baier family spokesperson son Frank Van Humbeck says family members will be attending Leinen's trial.

Meanwhile, during the evening of Oct. 17, the Olds detachment partially blocked 50 Avenue and half of the Texas Mickey parking lot to shoot video footage with Major Crimes for the upcoming trial.

"Major Crimes just came back in town with the collision reconstructionist and the ident guy," said Const. Lyle Korver.

"They were just comparing original footage with what's there now to get some more measurements."

Olds detachment members were present at the scene for five hours.

"They had to line everything up just perfect using the old footage."

WILKINS, Amos

June 1918 - October 2011

Amos passed away on Friday, October 14, 2011 at the Colonel Belcher in Calgary, AB at the age of 93 years. He served with the Calgary Highlanders during World War II where he attained the rank of lieutenant and was a veteran of the Dieppe Raid and the Battle of the Scheldt. After the war he farmed for a brief time in the Didsbury area and then moved to Calgary in 1952 to begin a long and successful career in the construction business. He returned to Didsbury after retiring and was an active member of the community for many years before once again moving to Calgary. He was deeply loved and will be sadly missed by his family: Georgia and Robert Schediwy, Donna Wilkins, George Meggison, Gail and Everett Landon, Barb and Doug Fenton, Mark Saunders and Sandra Greatrex. Also left to treasure his memory are 8 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. He is survived by his brother George Wilkins of Didsbury; brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Dave and Kay Hildebrand; and many nieces and nephews. Amos was predeceased by his son James Arthur; daughter Heather Marie; Georgina Catherine; his wife and the mother of his children; and Mary Jane his second wife of 25 years; brothers Frank, Sid, Ern; and sisters Lil, Elsie and Eva. A Memorial Service was held in Calgary at FOSTER'S GARDEN CHAPEL on Wednesday, October 19, 2011 and interment followed in the Field of Honour in Queen's Park Cemetery. In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made directly to the Poppy Fund and The Vets' Angels. Expressions of sympathy may be forwarded to the family via the website www.fostergardenchapel.ca
